

The James Dykstra Center

Individuals attending the James Dykstra Center spend their days participating in a wide range of activities. Life skills instruction, such as basic reading, writing, math, computer, cooking and problem solving, is provided, as well as lessons in self-advocacy, hygiene, safety and nutrition. To support motor skills, the James Dykstra Center offers a varied interactive exercise program including yoga classes led by a certified yoga instructor. Social interaction is highly encouraged, however smaller group activities and quiet areas are also available to suit individual needs.

SCARC day programs have a strong focus on community integration. At the James Dykstra Center, individuals participate in various educational and recreational community outings based on needs, interests and capabilities. Some current activities include visits to parks, libraries, local farms, museums, fairs, recreation, and retail establishments.

Located at 15 US Route 206, Augusta, New Jersey, the James Dykstra Center is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 am to 2:30 pm. The Center is staffed by Day Habilitation Direct Support Professionals (DSPs) at a ratio of one DSP to approximately three individuals. Transportation is available for attendees within the Center's transportation catchment area.

General Information

The James Dykstra Center is one of SCARC's seven day programs offering day habilitation and prevocational training services. It has been in operation since 2019.

SCARC's day programs are licensed and funded by the New Jersey Department of Human Services and the New Jersey Division of Developmental Disabilities.
