Early August News at ASCARC

- Judith Johns from our Fredon group home and a participant in our virtual day habilitation program, called Day Hab Goes Digital, has completed an activity of painting by numbers. Several program participants have completed their art work as part of the Day Hab Goes Digital curriculum. The virtual day habilitation program is supervised by director of community services Liza Fiebert with assistance from team members Luann Salvatoriello, Brooke Ulikowski, Angelique Kobylinski, Nora Chatterton, Sue Connors, and Deb Fleischer.

- Lewis from our Franklin group home wears his new Special Olympics team shirt after competing in remote competitions. All of the SCARC athletes received commemorative tee shirts for this year's Special Olympics season, which was remotely achieved. Congratulations Lewis and all SCARC athletes!

- The residents of our Newton group home show off their creations from an activity from our virtual day habilitation program which is mentioned above. Peter, Lisa, Craig, Ned, and Sean are a tight knit group of friends and they enjoy the day program each day online. Nice job guys!

- Several of SCARC's Self-Advocates met online with staff from Senator Robert Menendez's office to advocate for awareness of the funding needed by individuals with ID/DD, specifically during the COVID-19 pandemic. Cory, Kalahan, and Sean are doing an exceptional job of being self-advocates, and are shown in the photo of the zoom session (left).

- Residents and staff from our Hampton group home made a day trip to High Point State Park to enjoy the great weather and get a little exercise. The guys were socially distancing with other park guests, and were careful to stay healthy and safe. Look at the beautiful sky!

- Peter and staff Alec from our Newton group home share shirts one day which brought a joyful reaction to Peter. Sometimes the simple things in life bring the most joy. Congratulations on being twins for a day!
- After 22 weeks of quarantine from the COVID-19 virus, none of our 100 residents in our homes and apartments have come down with the virus. We are most thankful for this track record. Stay safe and healthy everyone.
