More October News at ASCARC

- John from our Franklin group home is learning to play chess from staff Kathleen who has taken on the challenge of teaching chess to the men at the home. John looks so intent as he thinks through the plan of attack on the chess board. Good work Franklin team!

- The men and women from our Sussex group home attended the New Jersey Sussex County Firemen's Association Parade this past Saturday which celebrates the 101-year anniversary of the Association. The parade was hosted by the Sussex Fire Department, home fire department of our Sussex group home.

- Joe from our Individual Living Program in Hardyston visited the Eleventh Hour Rescue location in Dover to see and talk with the rescue animals at the center. Joe visited with cats and dogs to enjoy his visit. In past years, Joe used to visit an animal shelter to walk dogs as part of his individual day program routine. His love of animals has been prominent throughout his life.

- Sean, Nina, and Susan from our Sussex group home are preparing for the Halloween season with homemade decorations for their home. After the home's new and improved front walkway and steps, the residents will enjoy a decorative entrance way with the seasonal beautification.

- Alphonso (left) and Ernie from our Beemerville group home participate in our Day Hab Goes Digital program and our pumpkin painting activity in their group home kitchen. Both men love to participate in the program with a large variety of daily activities of interest to all. Great job men!

- It is getting time for our SCARC Foundation Annual Appeal during which solicitation letters are mailed out to our vast mailing list of donors, families, and friends. This year's appeal letter comes from the Klaus and Marge Merkle family who write about SCARC's support for their adult son Craig. Craig lives in our Newton group home and participates in our Eleanor Clark day program. Be as generous as you can to support the SCARC Family of Services. Thank you.
