

This Week at ASCARC

Volume 9, Issue 11

Friday, April 22, 2022

More Mid-April News at ASCARC

- Participants from our Clark Center in Hampton paid a visit to the Main Branch of the Sussex County Library to look at books, read, and gain information from the resources at the library. Staff assisted the individuals in selecting books and resources to enjoy their visit.

- Brad from our Beemerhill group home (right) is taking in the great weather by relaxing outside on the porch of the home. He loves to listen to the sounds of the season, and the occasional sounds of lawn mowers in the neighborhood. Brad is the ultimate fan of lawnmowers and the sounds they make.

- Our friends from NJ Self Advocacy Project were on our digital day hab last week as part of their Healthy Lifestyles Series to make a Summer Pasta Salad. Participants from our Eickmann Center in Hampton joined together in the making of the salad, and the eating of same. Delicious for everyone!

- Several of our Self-Advocates from Council 1 joined together at the Eickmann Center recently to be part of a zoom meeting with other Arc chapters. The evening meeting was also joined by others who zoomed in from their homes and other group homes. In spite of hindrances with transportation, Council 1 has been meeting remotely each month to discuss their business and interests.

- Our Eickmann Center lesson in Critter Care with Farm Chicks, leader Diana taught the group about ducks and chickens. She told us how she had a group of abandoned duck eggs. She placed them under her Mother chicken, with her chicken eggs, hoping the mother Chicken would keep and mother them. She did and the ducklings follow around their mother Chicken and the baby chicks. After the educational part of the presentation the group took part in an arts and crafts activity, and made a chicken seedling holder. In the photo left, Joe shows us his craft creation.

-